Employers and union organisations on floor 5

Employers

In Gallery 5 you can talk directly to employers – this can lead to a job, either now or in the future. All employers looking for staff at the previous Bazaar said that they met jobseekers who they thought they would be employing. The employers are looking for staff in all kinds of areas – there is a job list on the website and in the exhibition magazine that will be included with Metro on 8 February.

Union organisations

The union organisations will provide information on the labour market of their members and on rights and obligations in working life. You will find them on floor 5 with the employers.

Mock interviews

On Saco's stand (floor 5) you can book an appointment for a mock interview/careers advice. You will need to bring your CV to the interview. You can get advice and tips on how to present yourself in order to improve your job chances. The number of interviews is limited.

Education on floor 3

In Foyer 3 you'll meet representatives of universities, colleges, vocational colleges and other institutes of higher education, along with CSN (which grants financial aid for studies), the Swedish National Agency for Higher Education and the Swedish Agency for Higher Education Services. Apart from information on studies and grants, you can also get guidance on how to get an assessment made of your foreign certificates or degrees in preparation for employment or further study.

Lectures at Ekoteket, floor 2

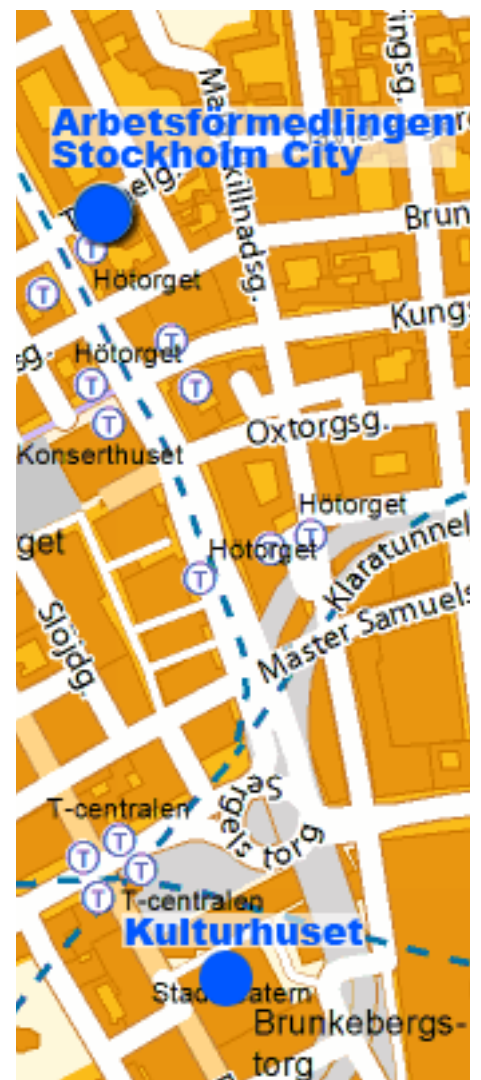

On floor 2, next to the escalators, the organisers will be offering a varied programme of lectures throughout the Bazaar. The programme will be included in the exhibition magazine.

Café Starta Eget Sergels torg 3 own entrance on ground floor

At Studion you can get information on all the most important aspects of starting a business – business plans, book-keeping, accounting, sales, taxes, software and more. NB The café's own entrance is about 50 metres to the left on the ground floor if you stand in front of Kulturhuset.

Stage programme and mini- seminars at Café Starta Eget

A varied programme of stage presentations and seminars will be on offer. The entire programme will be included in the exhibition magazine.
